Suspected Thieves Escape Arrest Owing to an Error Being Made in the Com- ag plaint-Social Events of the Pant Week.

One of the Jarvis Wine company's wagons was standing in front of the store Friday while the driver was inside. A couple of men seized the opportunity of laying in a stock of liquors and made off with a case containing twenty-four pint bottles of blackberry brandy valued at $16. They took it out into the rear of Mergen's hotel and there had an imprompty celebration. Later the box was found with seventeen bottles untoucned. By its side were seven empty bottles. The men in the store suspected J. H. Page and Doug McLelland of doing the stealing and filed an information yesterday with the city clork. Later it was discovered that the information had not been signed properly, so no arrest was made.

SOCIAL GOSSIP.

How Council Bluffs Pleasure Lovers Pre pared for the Lenten Rest. The past week wound up the round of pleasure for the time being for a large number of the young people of Council Bluffs. A great many pleasant social affairs were given, none of them particularly brilliant, but all of a nature that will give the fair ones something agreeable to think about in the intervals of their preparations for the post-Lenten festivities

On Saturday evening, February 3, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Gauit gave a card party at beautiful home in Chicago, in honor of Miss Mollie Rice, and those who saw the gathering without knowing what city they were in might easily have believed they were in Council Bluffs, so many of the guests were familiar figures in Council Bluffs society circles. One who was there hands in the following comments:

"The rooms presented a beautiful picture, the prevailing color being rose, the lamp shades and wax candles being of that hue. The floral decorations were entirely of roses. The guests were: Messrs, and Mesdames John Y. Fuller, Edward Sackett, Lovelog and Linueban; Mrs. H. B. Sackett, Mrs Shepherd: Misses Rice, Shepherd, Jones and Sackett: Messrs. Fisher, Emerson, Auguslus, Jaroy and Campbell,

"Mrs. Gault wore a charming gown of red lace with diamond ornaments. Miss Rice, who assisted in receiving, wore a becoming gown of black grenadine and black silk. Miss Ada Shepherd wore plaid silk with white lace garniture. Miss Lulu Jones, heliotrope gown with , white lace and pear trimming. Miss Sacket, light silk with black velvet sleeves. Mrs. Fuller, gray silk. Mrs. Edward Sackett, figured silk nds. Mrs. Lovejoy, with carnations.

"Elaborate refreshments were served and wizes were awarded Miss Sackett and Mr. Lovejov, a chocolate pot and a cut glass

"Miss Rice is having a very pleasant time, card parties, luncheous, musicales and matinees in her honor—following each other in quick succession."

The Commercial Pilgrims on Saturday evening, February 3, in their handsome rooms in the Brown building, held one of the largest and most successful sociables and parties ever given under their auspices. Over 300 Council Bluffs Pilgrims and their friends were there. After the rendition of the program given below, of which the banjo solo, "Dancing Quakers," "Jolly Miller" and the humorous recitation seemed to be par-ticularly appreciated, the company adlourned to the dining room, where a handsome collation had been spread by the Pil-grims, who formed themselves into a band of waiters and helped their friends to the good things. is paying a visit to her Omaha and Council Bluffs relatives and friends. A few friends were entertained with her by Miss Anna Oberholtzer on Thursday evening in a very unique manner. In the early part of the evening each guest had attached to his or her back a card on which was written the name of some noted person or character. The guest, thus re-christened, had to ascertain whom he was personating, by asking questions of the other guests, these queries being confined to such as could be answered by "yes" or "no." or "I don't know." The unfortunate young man who was thus labelled, "Man in the Moon," had a puzzling task to establish his identity. Another amusing feature of the evening was the drawing of pictures, supposed to illustrate titles of familar songs Each guest was given one title and called upon to draw such a picture as he thought best illustrated the title. The other guests meanwhile watched the crayonist and guessed the title. The contest was very amusing. Refreshments crowned what amusing. Refreshments crowned proved to be a most enjoyable evening. Another novel form of entertainment was indulged in yesterday afternoon by a small company of friends gathered to meet Miss Chittenden at the home of Mrs. H. W. Tilton. The peculiar feature of the enter tainment was entitled 'a molding party. The ladies were divided into two groups They were provided with moist kindergarter lay and each group was given a nurser, rhyme, the objects in which to be molded in clay and dibe molded in clay and displayed the other group to guess therefrom the rhyme. One group was assigned "Lit-tie boy blue," and were called upon to mold the various objects in the familiar rhyme, such as the boy, his horn, the sheep etc. The other group in like manner molded the objects to illustrate "Hey, did dle, diddle," the cat, moon, dog, etc., being thus molded. Much merriment was thus caused, and the display of amateur art was horoughly enjoyable. Miss Grace Osborne entertained a numbe

A WELL KNOWN LADY IN COUNCIL BLUFFS SAYS: "The only relief I ever got was when I tried the Sweetland remedies. The pain in my head, back and limbs left me with the first injection almost, and the second injection brought away the cause of my trouble, more than twenty ulcers and kindred fungus growth, and two hours later at least half a pint of ulcerous mucus. For many days there continued to pass large quantities of ulcerous matter, much of it of a dark red character. I have never enjoyed such perfect, robust health since girlhood.

My eyezight has returned and I can read as well as ever and as long as I choose. I am

Multiplicity of Plans for Dodging Prohibition Without Repeal is Now Worrying Both Sides of the Fight in Iowa-

DES MOINES, Feb. 10 .- (Special to The Bee.)-The members of the committee on suppression of intemperance in both houses are completely worn out. They will meet again on Tuesday in joint session and hear the representatives from localities desiring a change in the present law, and hope to get a full presentation of the views of all and a frank statement as to the proper method of relief. It is conceded by the prohibitionists that these delegates will unanimously reject the mulct bill introduced in the house by Funk and will be almost a unit in favor of the Brower local option bill now pending in the senate. A few may incline to the support of the Harsh mulet bill as a sort of con-given this week-and remember that we cession to the prohibition element. can do for you at this season what may Meanwhile the republican members of the legislature are slowly settling down to the be impossible at any other. conclusion that "something must be done" to redeem the party pledges.

Spaulding, republican, of Floyd, is in favo of "pouring all of the pending bills into the lap of the house," as he expresses it, and let it take its chances. Should this be done Chairman Funk threatens to reveal some inside history that he says will stir up the animals.

The democrats are holding off and secretly wishing that this policy may be carried out, feeling almost certain that a serious division in the republican ranks would surely follow. Conservative republicans, like Milliman of Harrison, are at work urging a party caucus at an early date and an effort made to put some construction upon the thirteenth plank. The caucus idea is gaining ground very fast in the house, and by the middle of the coming week it will prob-ably materialize. The difficulty will be to get the members to agree in advance to be bound by the action of a majority. If this cannot be done, it is thought that it will not do any harm to let each republican express his views frankly and fearlessly and go over the whole ground in detail. It is confidently expected that some understanding can be reached which will prevent an open rupture on the floor of the house when the bills come up for consideration.

It is the program of the prohibitionists to carefully count noses, and if they find themelves strong enough to defeat the local op tion and the Harsh oills they will circulate a paper for signatures and force the liberals into a caucus, where they will endeavor to tie them hand and foot, and thereby head off any combination with the democrats.

The sentiment among the conservative re publicans is surely crystalizing in the direct tion of the bill introduced by Senator Finn. This measure is only two lines in length and simply empowers incorporated towns and cities to "provide by ordinance such further and additional penalties for the sale of intoxicating liquors as will best serve the interest of temperance and morality." Some of the radicals, like Waters of Muscatine, want to impose some special restrictions as to the nature of the ordinances upon the city councils, but the majority of this element will gladly accept such a law, coupled with resubmission, at an early date as a happy solution of the problem. On the other nand, the local option republicans would infinitely prefer this measure to any sort of a mulet tax that did not give some munity to those dealers who paid the tax. It is an open question whether they would not prefer this even to any kind of a measure that could only be put through by a fusion with the democrats. The effect of such a law would practically legalize the monthly fines now imposed on "disorderly houses" and enable city councils to force the keepers of such places to observe the rules and regulations that may be prescribed by the council under penalty of WAR ON IOWA CITY. The war upon the present management of the State university, located at lowa City, opened in the senate today. Senator Phelps of Cass introduced a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment moving the university from Iowa City to Des Moines. It is alleged that the institution, both in its management and environment, has become incapable of performing the great work on educational lines was designed to accomplish, and that the selection of a new location is now an impera-tive necessity. The majority of the mem-bers also feel that the advantages of the capital city as an educational center will ttract hundreds of students who now patronize the universities of other states. That the friends of the present location will fight this scheme to the last there si not a shadow of doubt, but it is by no means ertain that they can head off the proposed movement. It is the plan of the friends of removal, in case the amendment fails, to cut the appropriation to the lowest limit and thus endervor to starve out the present houlty or, at least, effect a change in the Board of Regents. Politics is going to figure somewhat in the discussion of this matter. It is charged by the republicans that the board, while professedly non-partisan, has filled the faculty with free partisan, has another traders and that the school has become mere annex to the democratic party.

In the senate President Dungan intro-duced a long resolution from the republicans of Holstein, Ida county, favoring the Harsh mulet bill or some other "carefully guarded form of local option. Also the manufacture of intexicating fiquer in this state."

Bills were introduced: By Boardman, re uiring imitation butter to be sold under it proper name; by Harper, providing that no insurance risks shall be written except by some legally commissioned agent; by Turner, authorizing local boards of health to make rules and regulations in respect t the moving, burying and quarantining of swine infected with swine plague or choiera (the same bill as introduced in the house by Shriver); by Turner, authorizing certain accident insurance companies to extend risks to include traveling and general accidents by land and water; by Yeomans, pro-viding police matrons for cities of 25,000 in-habitants and giving them sole control of female prisoners. The senate passed Funk's bill making trespassing on inclosed farms and cultivated lands by hunters a finable offense.

In the house bills were introduced: By Allen, doubling the tax on dogs; by Chassell, fixing the uniform price at one-third the legal rate for publishing the official bailot in rewspapers; by Martin, reducing passenger fare on first class railroads to 2 cents per mile; by Chapman, for appointment of police matrons in cities; by St. John, providing rules for the government of the penitentiary at Fort Madison; by Ellison, requiring the submission of question of contributary negligence in damage suits for personal injurie to jury to be determined as a matter of fact A resolution providing for submission of a constitutional amendment reducing the number of trial jurors to six, four of whom may return a verdict except in cases of felony, was submitted by Parker of Bur-

Byers' bill, limiting homesteads in cities to the value of $5,000 and increasing the farmer's exemption from forty to eighty acres or land was defeated on final passage.

CRESTON, Ia., Feb. 10 .- (Special Tele gram to The Bee.) -About fifty or sixty of the citizens of Creston met at the council chamber this evening in response to a call asking that a committee be sent to Des Moines to represent the people of Creston and to act as a lobby to work for a modification of the present liquor law. The Mo ing American editornily asked citizens stay away from the meeting, saying that if the legislators, after reading the different pintions, did not know how to act the nericers had better resign and return home This seemed to be the sentiment of many citizens and the small attendance is thus explained. The prohibitionists were out in full force and a resolution asking for QUICK RELIEF.

An Old Resident of Douglas County Adds Her Testimony.

Mrs. Christian Kuelber, of Millard, Douglas county, Neb., is well known in Omaha. Her husband is a large farmer and merchant at Millard, where he settled twenty years ago. Mrs. Knelber

"A good many years ago I began to have stomact rouble. At first it was simply a loss of appetite and a little discomfort and uponsiness after eating Then my stomach and bowels seemed poisoned by catarrh. Digestion failed. I couldn't eat without pain and distress and a horrible rumbling and belching of sour gas. Finally nothing would stay on my stomach. To cat meant to yourft. This was practically a slow starration. I was weak and niserable in spite of splendid doctors and patent medicines without number. Along with my other ills I had a terrible headache, the result of h grippe. I was sent to Dr. Shepard by Several of ment gave me quick relief, and after six weeks enjoying comfort and health after such long and severe suffering. My digestion is excellent, I cat heartily and am restored in every way. I send my ailing friends now to Dr. Shepard."

MR. ALEX, HARDIE, Bookkeeper, Iowa School for the Deaf.

While I do not relish any publicity I am entire Himr to speak briefly of my case and its suc-I treatment by Dr. Shepard. My trouble bean four or five years ago, right after contracting a cold that became scated through my whole ystem. This seemed to be the starting point of the whole list of allments that came after. A catarrh of the right eargave me intense aching and a discharge of pus: it then attacked my throat, naking it sore and red and very susceptible to olds. Working downwards the larny 1, or voice ov was involved so that I lost my voice entirely. at first it was hourseness, then a complete loss of speech. For two winters I was unable to make ny articulate expression, depending upon signlanguage alone to convey ideas. As the catarri worked downwards I experienced a tightness of the chest that seemed to prevent a full, deep breath. The short breathing and incessant cough that accompanied it gave me great distress and apprehension of a serious lung disease

"My system gave way under this terrible strain, and I lost appetite and strength. A nervous wakefulness at night prevented rest and added to the rouble. When Dr. Shepard took my cese he very soon changed all these things and I responded juickly to his treatment. The throat and lungs ere restored to health, my relish for food came back, and I am today in excellent condition as a esult of his skill. I can heartily commend Dr Shepard to all my friends who are seeking relief from chronic diseases."
